- The crime definitions used to collate the statistics in this report conform with the requirements of the Uniform Crime Reporting (UCR) Handbook published by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.
- Forcible Sex Offenses comprise the following UCR-defined offenses: Forcible Rape, Forcible Sodomy, Sexual Assault with an Object, and Forcible Fondling.
- Nonforcible Sex Offenses comprise the following UCR-defined offenses: Incest and Statutory Rape.
- Hate Crimes. The Clery Act requires the reporting by category of prejudice any crime reported in the classifications above and any other crime involving bodily injury "that manifests evidence that the victim was intentionally selected because of the victim's actual or perceived race, gender, religion, sexual orientation, ethnicity, or disability." No hate crimes, as defined above, were reported in the crime classifications listed above at Cardinal Stritch University in 2010, 2011, or 2012.

* Note: As of the 1999 calendar year, The Clery Act requires, in addition to the arrest data reported here, the release of statistics for persons not included in the arrest data who were referred for University disciplinary action for liquor law violations, drug policy violations, or weapons policy violations.

The Clery Act further requires an institution that maintains a campus police or a campus security department to maintain a written, easily understood daily crime log that records, by the date the crime was reported, any crime that occurred on campus, in certain off-campus buildings or property owned or controlled by the University, and on public property within, or immediately adjacent to and accessible from the campus, and was reported to the security department or local police. This log must include:

1. The nature, date, time, and general location of each crime; and
2. The disposition of the complaint, if known.

This crime log for the most recent 60-day period is open for public inspection during normal University business hours. Any portion of the log older than 60 days is available within two business days of a request for public inspection. Contact Security at (414) 410-4221 for public inspection.
